Title/Topic: Public Sector Critical Infrastructure

Audience: Students, Professors, Govt.

Presenter(s): Michael Hamilton (University of Washington)

Description:

Mr. Hamilton will discuss the criticality of the infrastructure that is operated at the local scale by government from a variety of perspectives. After enumerating the technology-enabled services operated by local government, public utilities, maritime ports and other government entities, he will discuss unique challenges in providing security for those technologies. Finally, Mr. Hamilton will present a policy-based control that would reduce government's threat surface by approximately 40%.
